

The IFOAM EU Group is looking for a Trainee

Starting from March/April 2010

(for at least 6 months)

Take your chance for an interesting and qualifying experience in the political scene in Brussels!

The IFOAM EU Group is the European working level of IFOAM, the International Federation of Organic Agriculture Movements. It represents the whole organic sector in Europe, ranging from consumer and producer organisations, processors and retailers to certifiers, consultants and researchers. Through its Brussels based office the IFOAM EU Group plays a key role in defending and promoting organic interests in Europe.

What you get from us:

- An interesting and multifaceted trainee position in the heart of Europe
- Working experience in agricultural and environmental policies at EU level
- Possibility to be part of a booming sector representation
- Assisting in the coordination of the organic movement in Europe, working on different policy files regards organic EU regulation, Agriculture and Food policies, Research Policies
- A truly European working environment within a young and committed European team
- Assisting in the preparation of conferences and events

What we expect from you:

- At least BSc degree
- Knowledge and interest on organic EU regulation, EU food and farming policies and research
- Very good written and oral English skills. Further languages are an additional asset
- Computer literacy
- Sense of responsibility and thorough working style
- Good communication skills
- Ability to work in a team
- Your willingness to support our team in logistical and administrative tasks
- Your own financial resources to cover your traineeship, e.g. Erasmus-/Leonardo programme

Please use the application form to apply for this trainee position and return the filled-in form to vivianne.aggestam@ifoam-eu.org

The application deadline for this traineeship is February 10th, 2010.